TONIGHT

What we'll cover in the next hour

01

My story

How one dinner in Bali changed everything

02

The 5 secrets

The S.T.O.R.Y. method, with techniques you can use tonight

03

The spectrum

The eight colors every speaker can learn

04

Behind the scenes

How we built an AI coach that watches you speak

05

The reveal

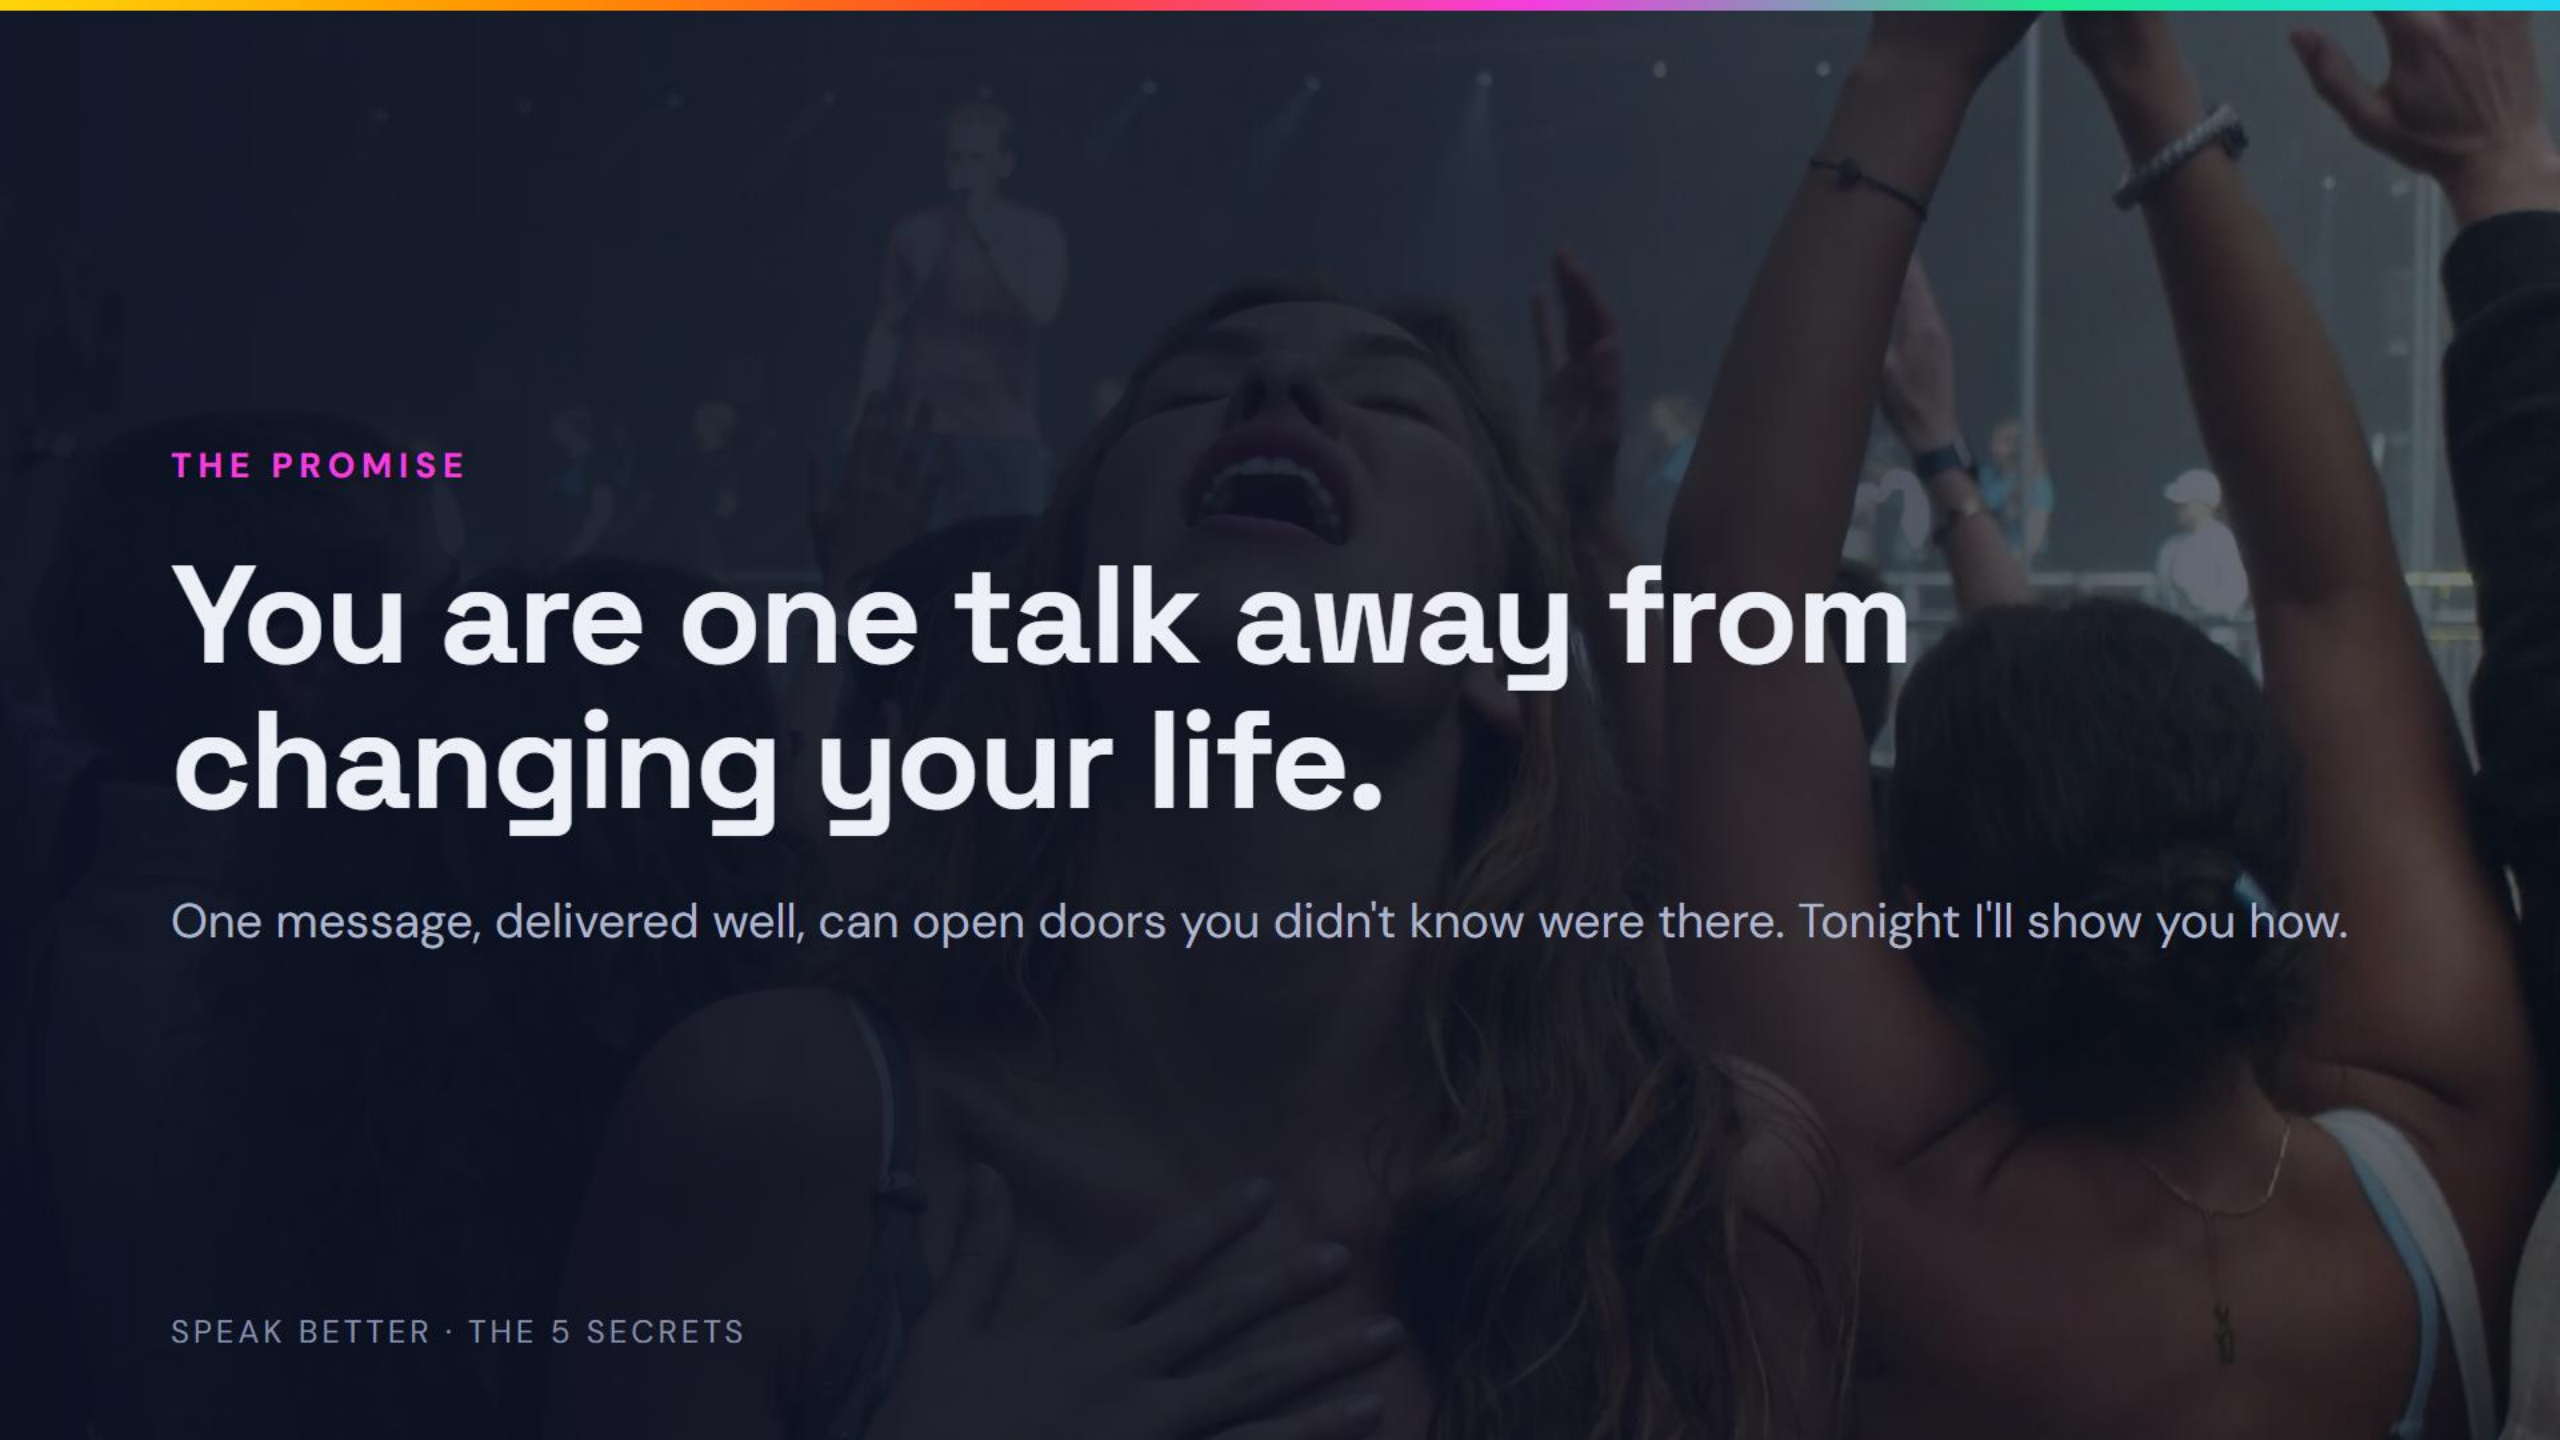

Something I've been building for years — and Q&A

TYPE IN THE CHAT

Where are you joining from — and what would change if you spoke with total confidence?

One line. There are no wrong answers.

THE PROMISE

You are one talk away from changing your life.

One message, delivered well, can open doors you didn't know were there. Tonight I'll show you how.

SPEAK BETTER · THE 5 SECRETS

BALI, 2011

Once upon a table in Bali

Late one night at the Tugu Hotel, a woman named Susie Johnston asked me to share the story of how I got to Bali. I told it, sitting there at the table.

A few days later an email arrived: "You've come highly recommended by Susie Johnston to be a speaker for TEDx. We're bringing it to Bali."

MY FIRST-EVER SPEECH

A TEDx talk — and 10× the views

A month later — after studying the greats: Les Brown, Martin Luther King, John F. Kennedy, Tony Robbins, Bob Proctor and many more — I wrote and delivered my TEDx talk.

It racked up more than ten times the views of every other talk at that conference. And then people started reaching out.

THE MESSAGES THAT ARRIVED

I watched your talk and quit my job.

I watched your talk and bought a plane ticket.

I watched your talk and proposed.

Months later, the talk was still creating value. Your value on video is immortal — a time capsule that reaches people wherever they are, whenever they need it most.

STAGES AROUND THE WORLD

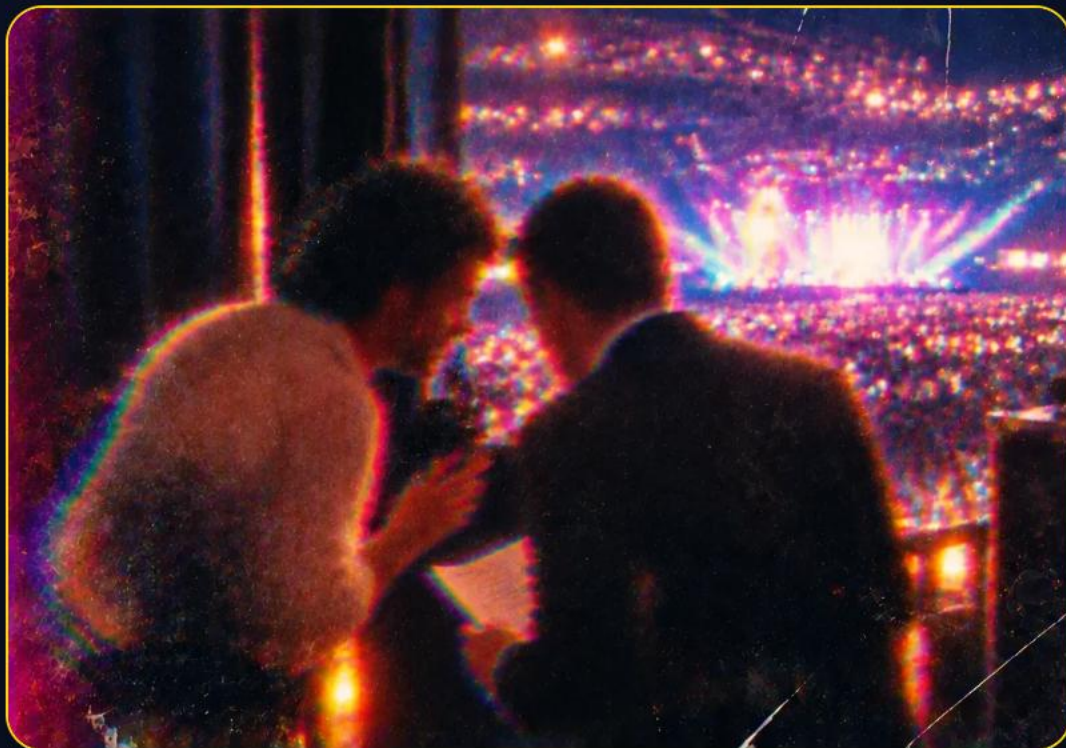

Standing ovations

Sold-out transformational retreats, and festivals and institutions including Bali Spirit Festival, Freedom Fest in Australia and in Budapest, the Stockholm School of Economics in St. Petersburg, and Wild and Free in Sweden.

Routinely, to standing ovations.

SPEAK BETTER · THE 5 SECRETS

A FORMULA, AND A METHOD

A standing ovation is a formula

Shifting an audience — so they leave as someone different from who walked in — is a methodology. So I began writing speeches for other high-level entrepreneurs:

Brian Kelly, founder of 9D Breathwork, whose talk went on to get him a TED talk · Balazs W. Kardos, for his speech to 8,000 people at Enagic's 50th anniversary in Okinawa · Dr. Michelle Patrick, whose talk earned her a standing ovation.

COMMUNICATE AND CAPTIVATE

This method really works

Small live groups. Interactive speaking challenges. Students uploading videos of themselves speaking — and me watching every one and giving feedback.

Awkward and nervous on camera on day one. Confident and eloquent by week four: starting podcasts, going live without fear, booking speaking gigs of their own.

In the first week I felt a shift. Talking into the camera, Tariq has a gift that is helping me build my confidence, which I haven't experienced before.

— Jackie Briggs

BEFORE THE SECRETS

The fear isn't a personality trait. It was installed.

THE IDEA

Usually early, usually by a room that laughed or an adult who told you to be quiet.

Take a notebook and trace it back. Find the first memory of your voice being unsafe. You can't undo conditioning you haven't looked at.

FROM THE LESSON · WHY YOU HAVE A FEAR OF PUBLIC SPEAKING

"You're daydreaming, drawing a dragon, and the teacher says: what's the answer on the board? You blurt out the wrong one, and everybody laughs."

"School isn't teaching you to be expressive. It's teaching you to be right or wrong – and speaking is expression."

TRY THIS WITH ME NOW

Soften: calm your nerves in three breaths

THE IDEA

Nerves are a body doing threat response. The way out is through the body's own cues — the breath and the eyes.

Deep breaths in through the nose and out slowly. Soften your gaze instead of staring. Let the tension out of your shoulders.

FROM THE LESSON · HOW TO OVERCOME YOUR FEAR OF
SPEAKING: SOFTEN

"Out on the plains of Africa, facing a wild animal, are you taking nice deep breaths? You're panting."

"Soften your gaze, soften your breathing, release the tension, and the fear starts to go."

THE METHOD

Five secrets. One word: S.T.O.R.Y.

S

Start With Awareness

Reflect, baseline, and map your voice's starting point.

T

Train Your Instrument

Build vocal clarity, rhythm, tone, and presence.

O

Own Your Stories

Storytelling techniques, scene work, and personal expression.

R

Reveal Deeper Truths

Connect emotionally, explore vulnerability, expand empathy.

Y

Your Impact

Analogies, podcast intros, pitches and the mic drop.

SECRET 1 OF 5

Start With Awareness

You can't change what you can't hear.
Reflect, baseline, and map your voice's starting point.

SPEAK BETTER · THE 5 SECRETS

S

SECRET 1 · START WITH AWARENESS

Remove filler words: close your lips

THE IDEA

The sounds your mouth makes while your brain catches up — like, you know, so. It's the fastest tell between a beginner and someone experienced.

When you're thinking of what comes next, close your lips and hold eye contact. Open them again when you have the words.

FROM THE LESSON · WHAT ARE FILLER WORDS AND HOW TO REMOVE THEM

"It's like a computer loading screen — if you do that with your mouth, out come the words."

"It's not an awkward silence if you maintain eye contact."

SECRET 1 · START WITH AWARENESS

Speak through the camera, to one person

THE IDEA

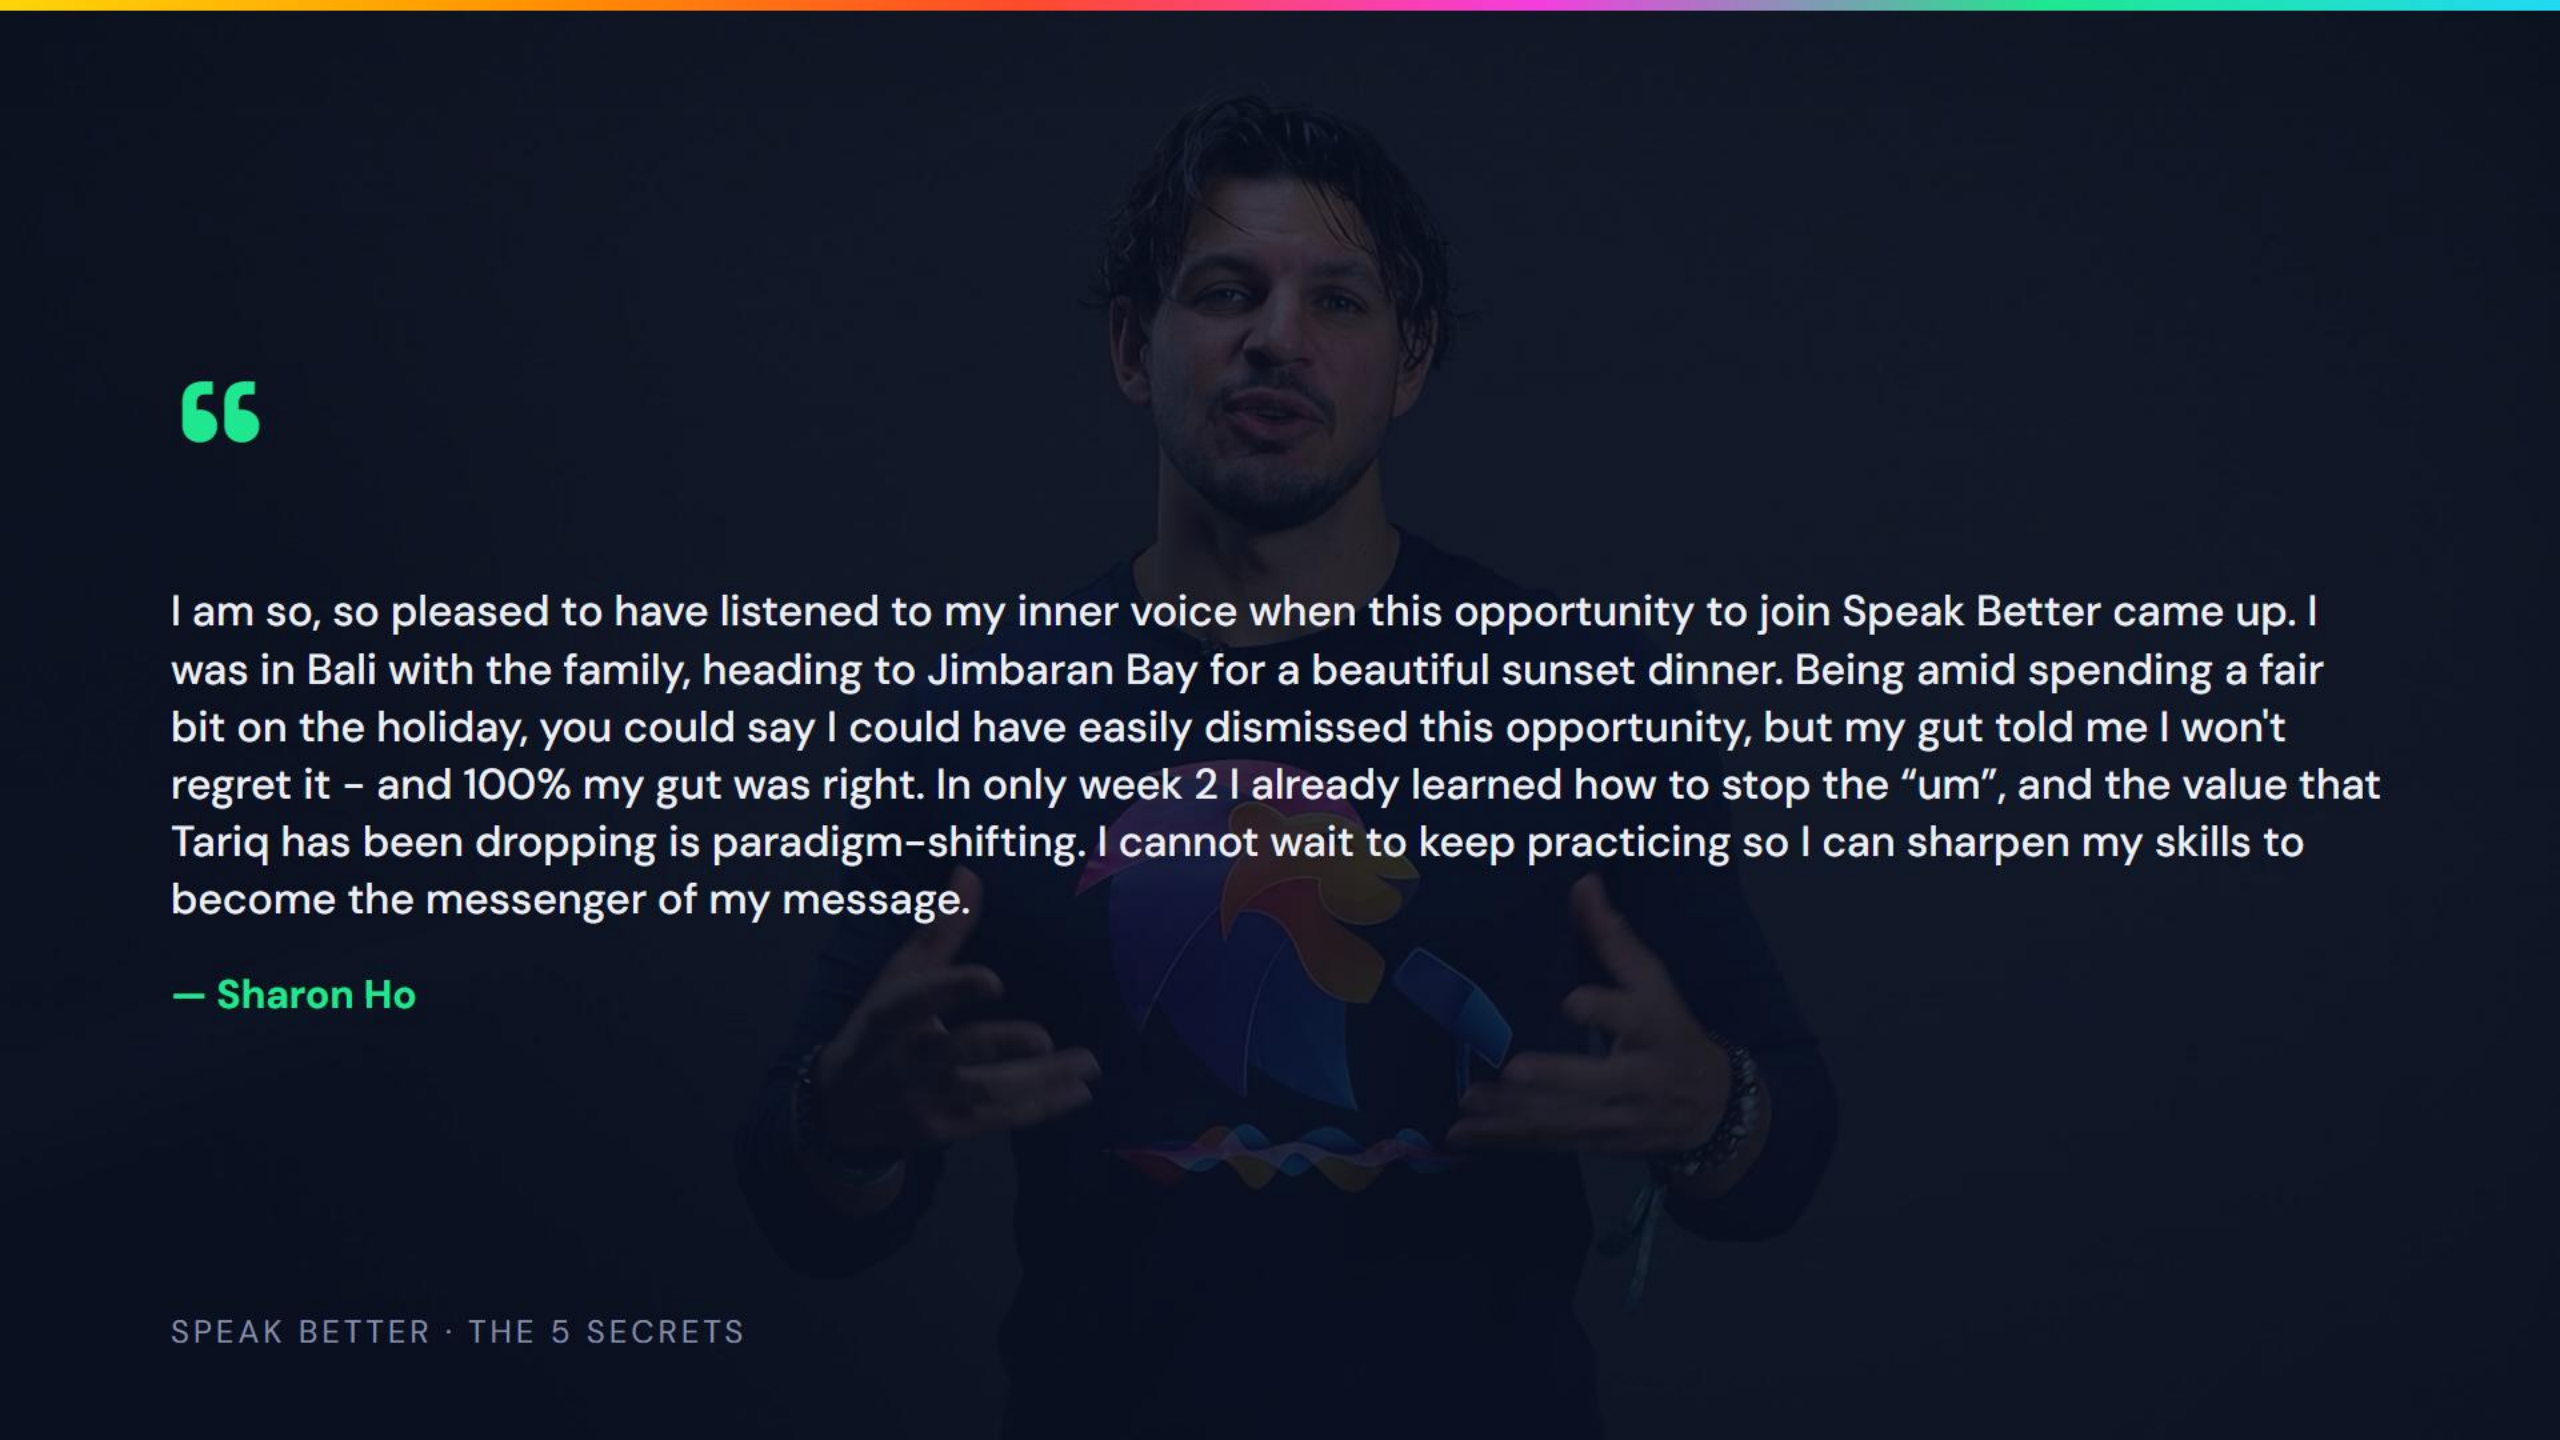

You're not speaking to the camera. You're speaking through it, to one person on the other side.

Find exactly where the lens is on your phone and look at that. Then picture one particular person who likes what you make — and talk to them.

FROM THE LESSON · HOW TO SPEAK NATURALLY TO A PHONE OR CAMERA

"You're chopping vegetables, someone passes the window and you wave. Are you waving at the window, or through it?"

"If you're worried about the trolls, speak to somebody you know loves your content, and let the phone be the thing in between."

I am so, so pleased to have listened to my inner voice when this opportunity to join Speak Better came up. I was in Bali with the family, heading to Jimbaran Bay for a beautiful sunset dinner. Being amid spending a fair bit on the holiday, you could say I could have easily dismissed this opportunity, but my gut told me I won't regret it – and 100% my gut was right. In only week 2 I already learned how to stop the “um”, and the value that Tariq has been dropping is paradigm-shifting. I cannot wait to keep practicing so I can sharpen my skills to become the messenger of my message.

— Sharon Ho

SECRET 2 OF 5

Train Your Instrument

Your body and voice are an instrument.
Build vocal clarity, rhythm, tone, and presence.

SPEAK BETTER · THE 5 SECRETS

T

SECRET 2 · TRAIN YOUR INSTRUMENT

Make your message a melody

THE IDEA

Music isn't every note at the same volume and pace. Neither is a talk worth listening to.

Speed up to carry excitement, then slow right down to land a point. The change between the two is the melody — not the speed itself.

FROM THE LESSON · MAKING YOUR MESSAGE A MELODY

"You don't have all the notes jumbled together at the same volume. You have moments of pause, moments of rest, then a flurry of notes."

"Do you go high and nasal, up in your head, or drop into the diaphragm and speak with gravity?"

SECRET 2 · TRAIN YOUR INSTRUMENT

The powerful pause

THE IDEA

A pause is only awkward if your face says it is. Held on purpose, it's the strongest punctuation you have.

Say the line, slow down, stop, and look at people while it lands. If you lose your place, keep your eyes where they are and breathe — nobody can tell the difference.

FROM THE LESSON · POWERFUL PAUSE VS AWKWARD SILENCE

"Every second you pause is magnified by the number of people in the room."

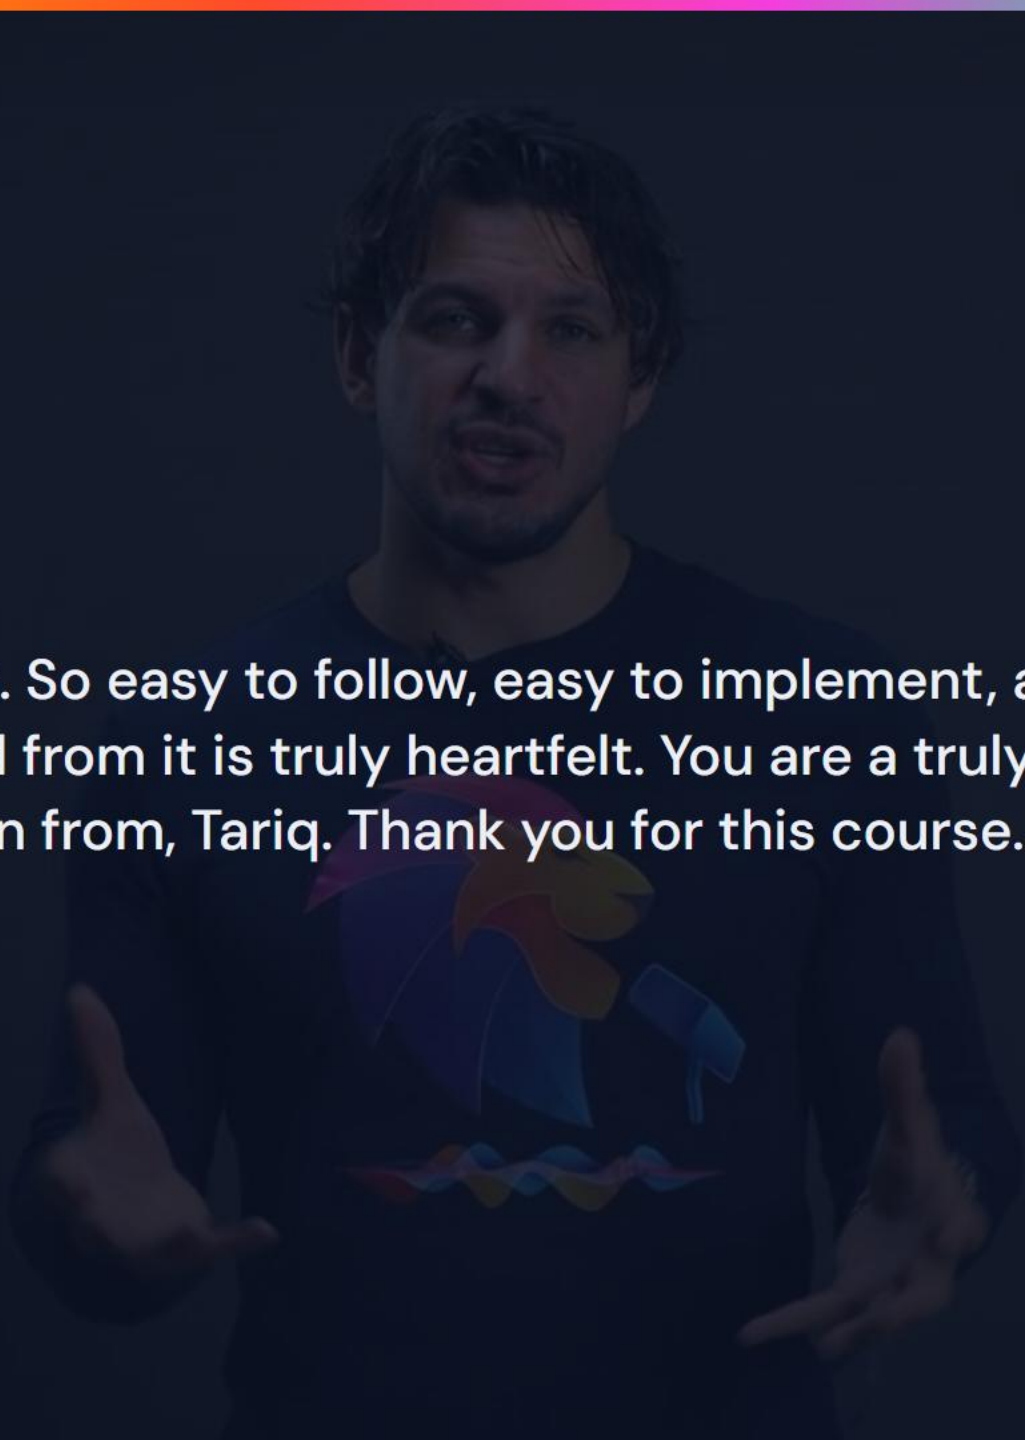

"Take four or five seconds if you need them. They'll think you meant to do it."

TYPE IN THE CHAT

Say your name out loud twice: once from your head, once from your belly.

Then type in the chat: which one sounded more like a leader?

This course is the best. So easy to follow, easy to implement, and the knowledge and confidence gained from it is truly heartfelt. You are a truly beautiful, resonant, melodic human to learn from, Tariq. Thank you for this course.

— Gene East

SECRET 3 OF 5

Own Your Stories

Facts tell, stories sell. Storytelling techniques, scene work, and personal expression.

SPEAK BETTER · THE 5 SECRETS

O

SECRET 3 · OWN YOUR STORIES

Don't tell it — relive the experience

THE IDEA

We call it storytelling, but the best stories aren't told — they're relived in front of the room.

Go back into the moment and take the audience with you. Feel the emotion again, let your body do what it did, and put in what you saw, heard and smelled.

FROM THE LESSON ·
STORYTELLING: DON'T TELL
IT, RELIVE THE EXPERIENCE

"There's a seat next to you on the roller coaster. You put the audience in it and say: we're going on a ride."

"I was staring at the clock and the hands looked like they were going backwards – it was moving so slow. Stale coffee in the air, and chemical carpet cleaner."

SECRET 3 · OWN YOUR STORIES

Life scene, not life story

THE IDEA

A story in a talk is a scene, not a biography. One moment that carries the point.

Pick the scene that holds the moral and start there. Age, dates and back story only earn their place if the point needs them.

FROM THE LESSON · LIFE SCENE NOT LIFE STORY

"Don't try and recount the last 15 or 20 years."

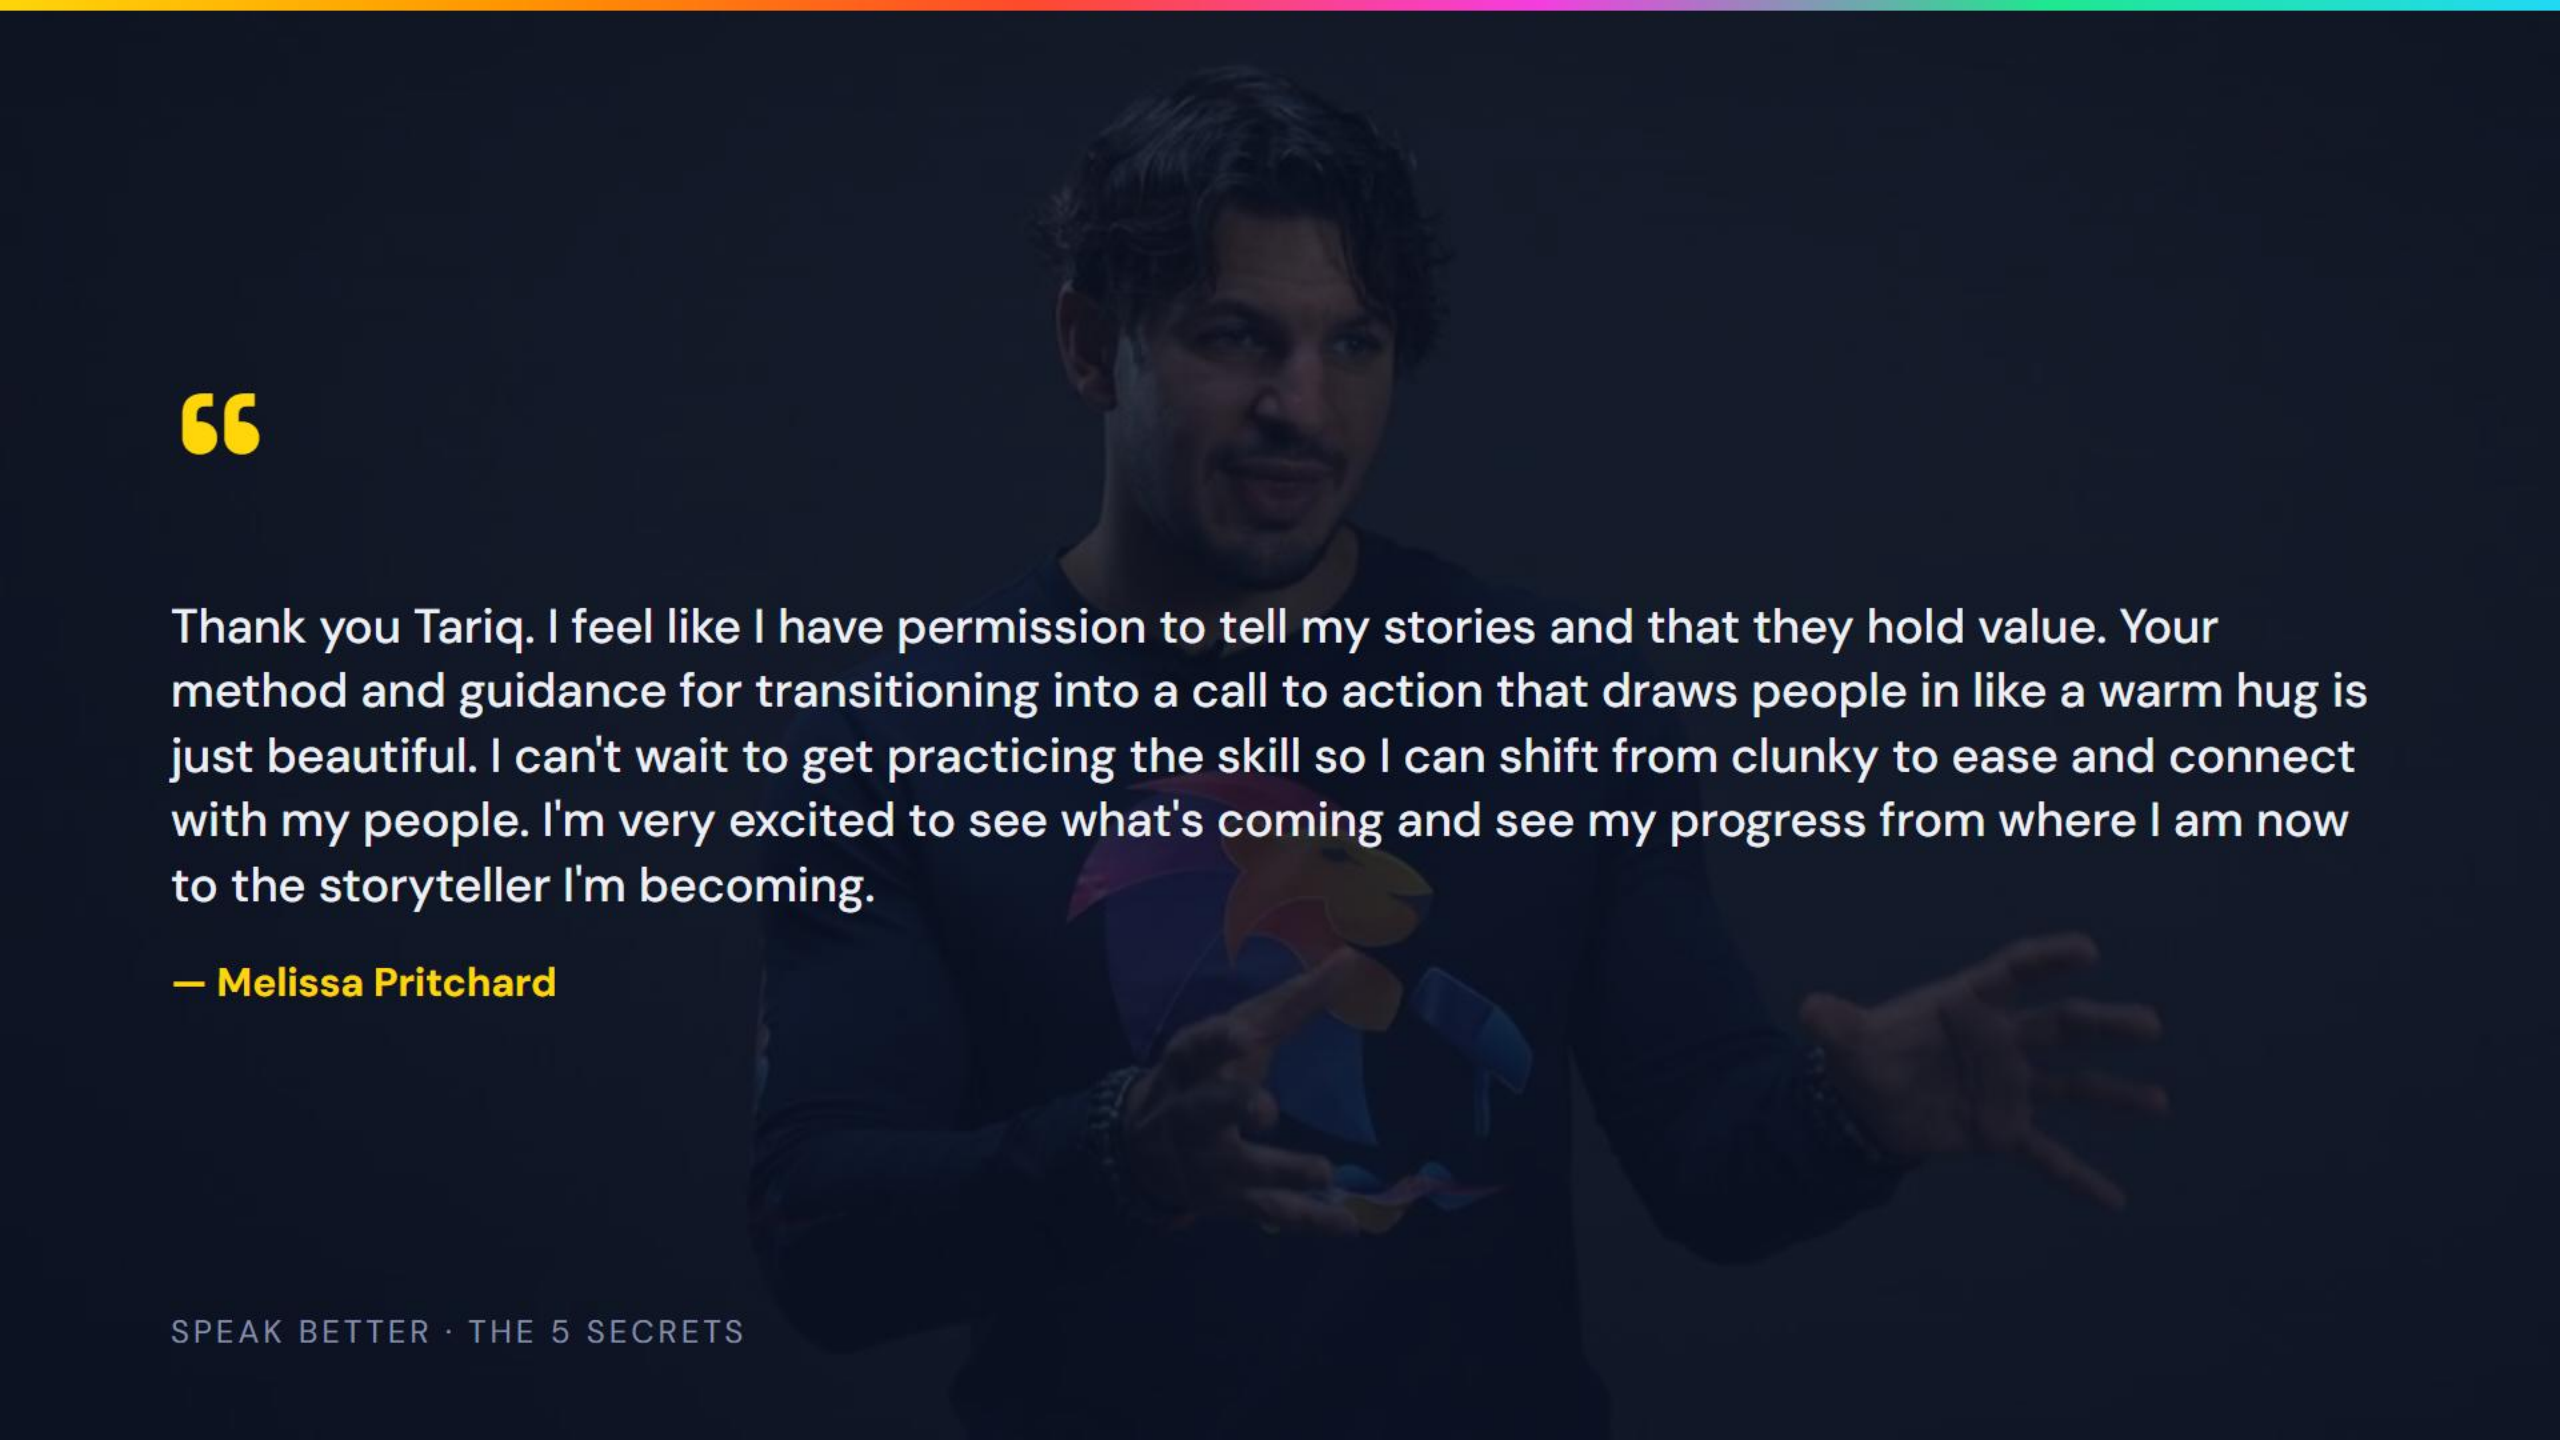

"It's okay to talk about yourself, as long as the value is for the listener."

TYPE IN THE CHAT

Pick one scene from your life. Where were you — and what could you smell?

Just the moment. Not the whole story.

Thank you Tariq. I feel like I have permission to tell my stories and that they hold value. Your method and guidance for transitioning into a call to action that draws people in like a warm hug is just beautiful. I can't wait to get practicing the skill so I can shift from clunky to ease and connect with my people. I'm very excited to see what's coming and see my progress from where I am now to the storyteller I'm becoming.

— Melissa Pritchard

SECRET 4 OF 5

Reveal Deeper Truths

Connect emotionally, explore vulnerability, expand empathy.

SPEAK BETTER · THE 5 SECRETS

R

SECRET 4 · REVEAL DEEPER TRUTHS

You're delivering an experience, not a talk

THE IDEA

Not a talk to be listened to — an experience to be gone through. Experiential listening.

Ask what the audience will have lived through by the end, not what they'll have been told. Then use story and body to build that.

FROM THE LESSON · YOU ARE DELIVERING AN EXPERIENCE, NOT A TALK

"You don't want them to simply listen to a talk. You want them to go on an adventure."

"You want them to join you on a journey."

SECRET 4 · REVEAL DEEPER TRUTHS

Don't just say it — see it

THE IDEA

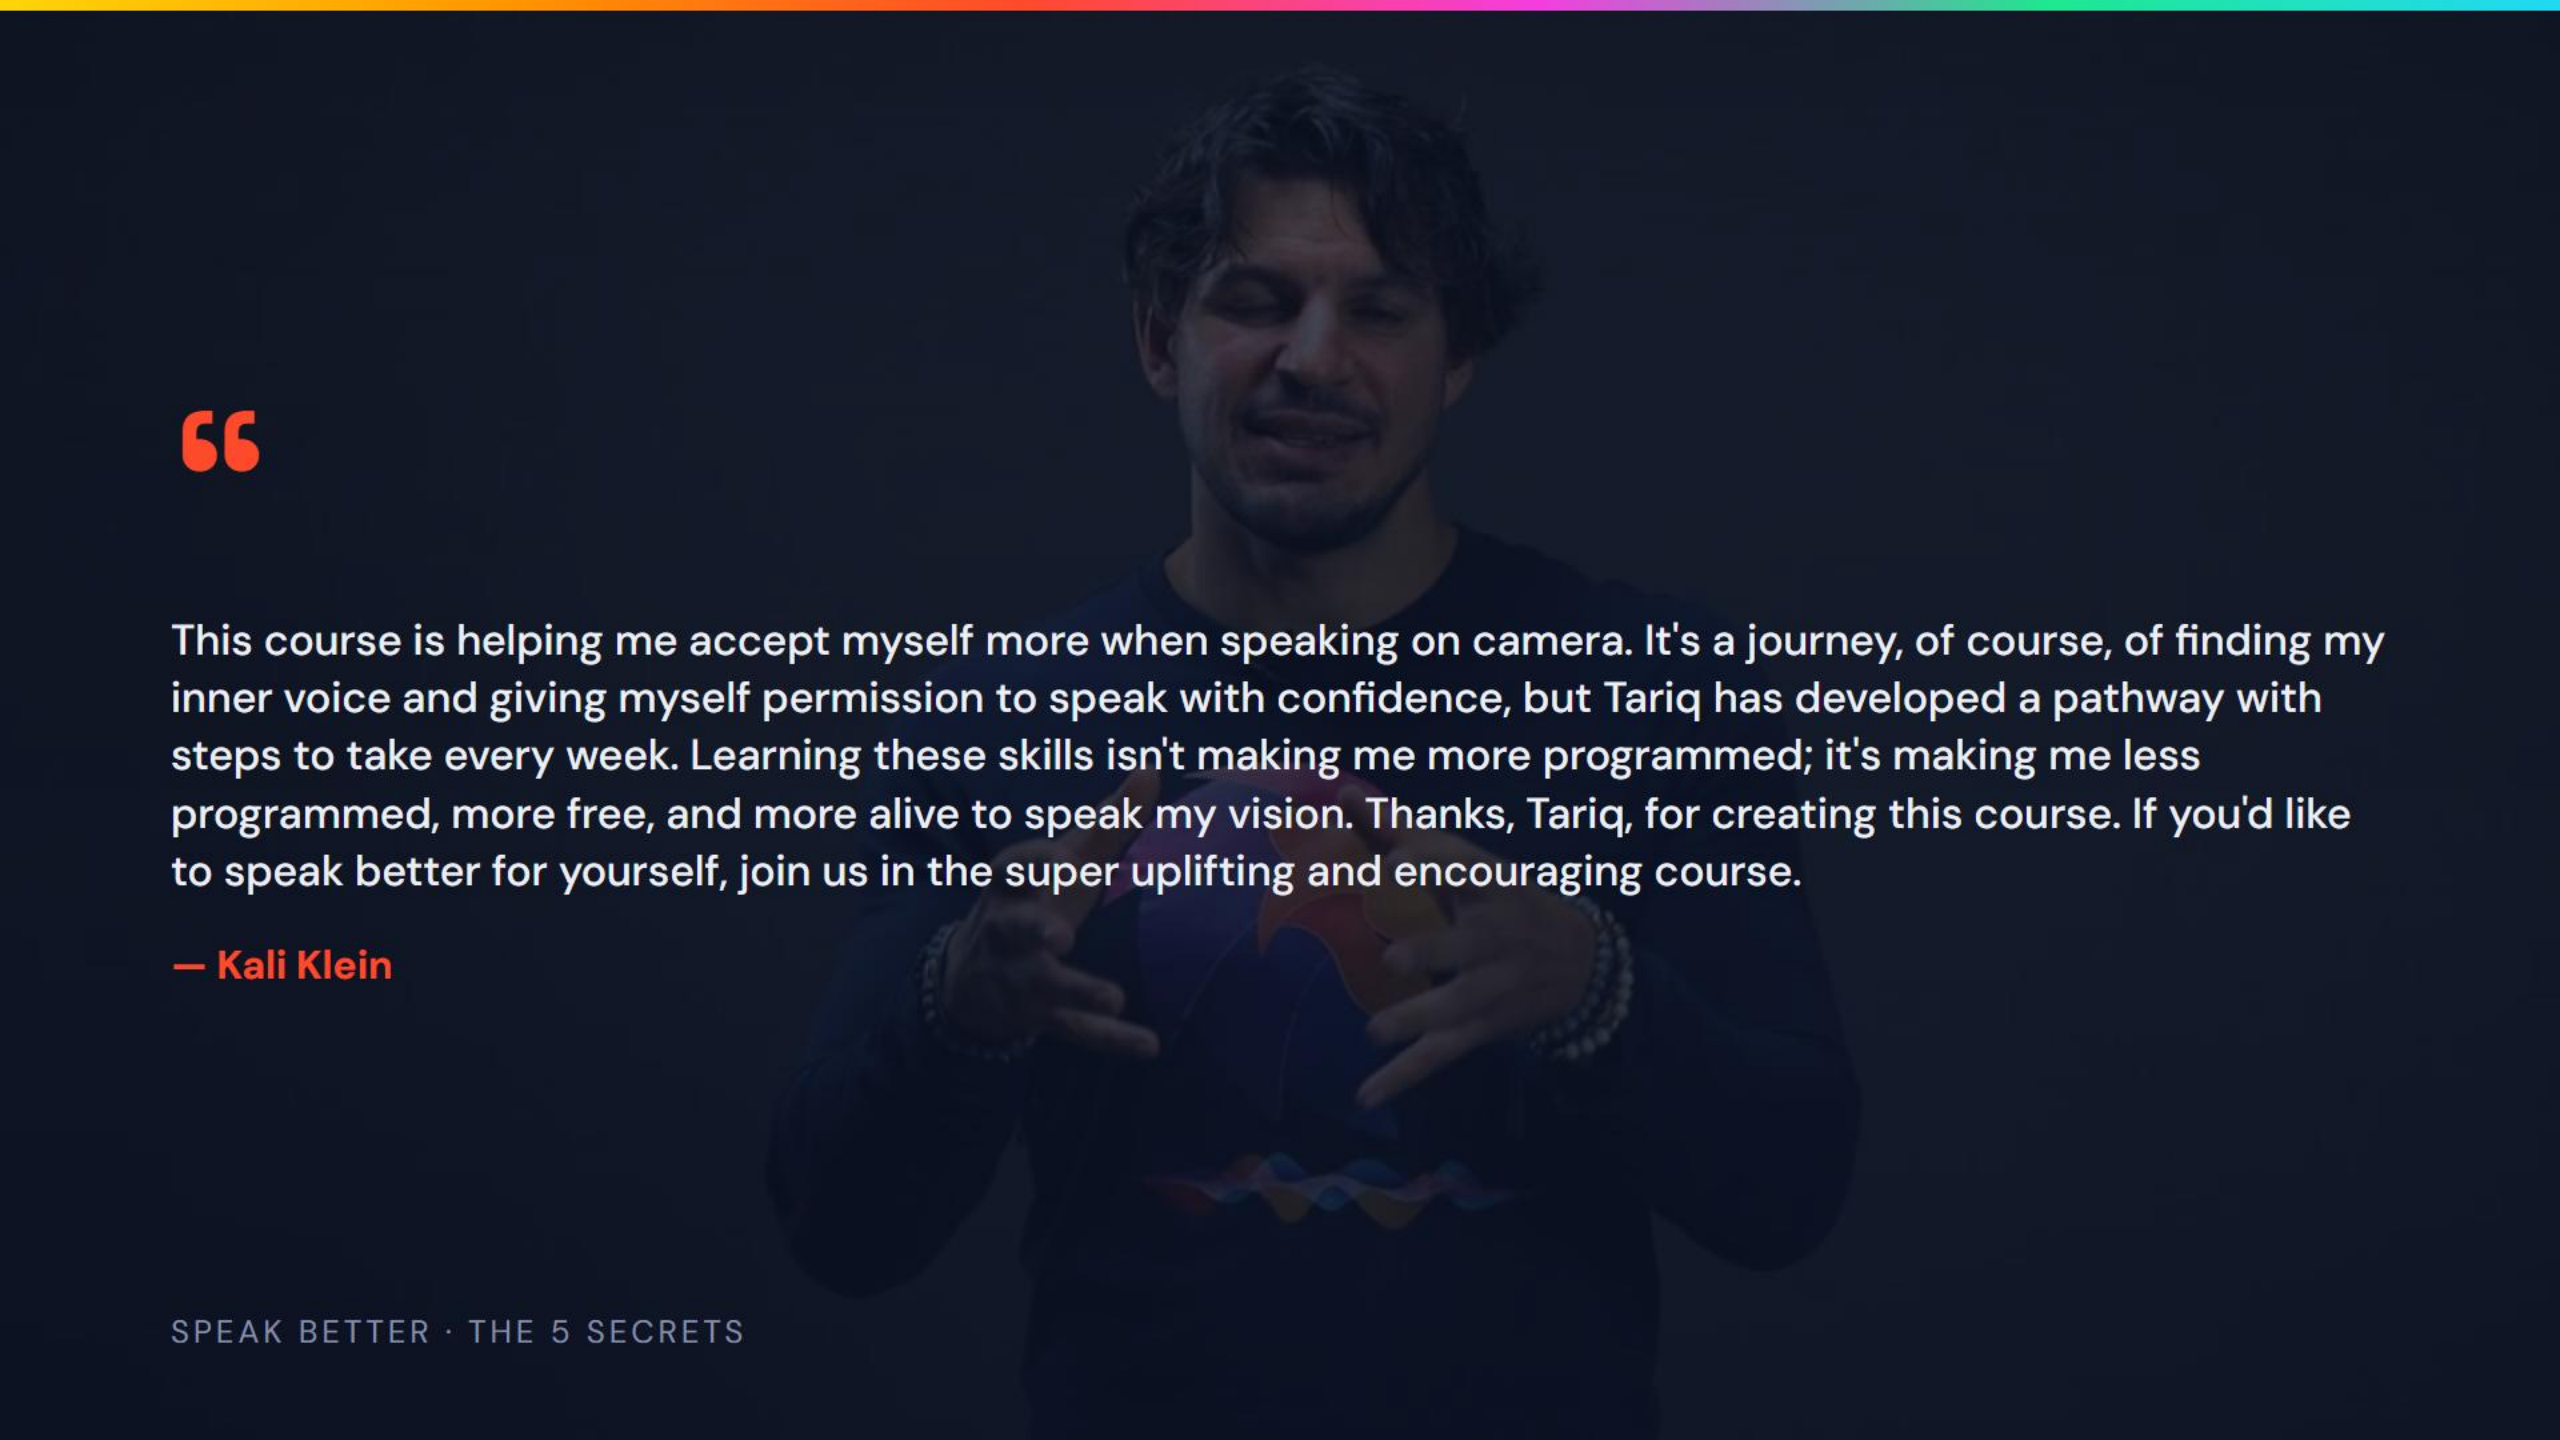

An actor's technique: if you can see the scene in your own mind, the audience sees it in your eyes.

Before you describe something, look off and actually picture it. Then describe what you're seeing — not what you'd planned to say.

FROM THE LESSON · ACTING
TIP FOR SPEAKERS: DON'T JUST SAY IT, IMAGINE IT

"Flat: It was a beautiful sunset, oranges and yellows."

"Seen: This watercolor painting of crimsons, oranges and pinks cast over the horizon, the sun dipping below, everything turning red before day gradually turns to night."

This course is helping me accept myself more when speaking on camera. It's a journey, of course, of finding my inner voice and giving myself permission to speak with confidence, but Tariq has developed a pathway with steps to take every week. Learning these skills isn't making me more programmed; it's making me less programmed, more free, and more alive to speak my vision. Thanks, Tariq, for creating this course. If you'd like to speak better for yourself, join us in the super uplifting and encouraging course.

— Kali Klein

SECRET 5 OF 5

Your Impact

Analogies, podcast intros, pitches and the mic drop.

SPEAK BETTER · THE 5 SECRETS

Y

SECRET 5 · YOUR IMPACT

Teach anything with an analogy

THE IDEA

A simile with the scene built out. It walks around inside the comparison — which is why it can teach an abstract idea in one go.

Find the everyday thing your concept behaves like, then describe that thing in enough detail to picture.

FROM THE LESSON · ANALOGIES MASTERCLASS

"Learning a skill is like driving your car through the snow. The first time there's no path – you have to chug and push the car through. But once you've made that groove, the car knows the path."

SECRET 5 · YOUR IMPACT

Open a loop — and always close it

THE IDEA

A question asked at the start and answered at the end. People are curious by nature, and an unclosed loop is uncomfortable to walk away from.

Open with something they want the answer to, say you'll get to it, then put the real content in the middle. Close the loop at the end.

FROM THE LESSON · OPEN LOOPS

"Does a saltwater crocodile have enough force in its jaws to crush a human skull? Stick around to the end and I'll tell you."

SECRET 5 · YOUR IMPACT

Build your mic drop moment

THE IDEA

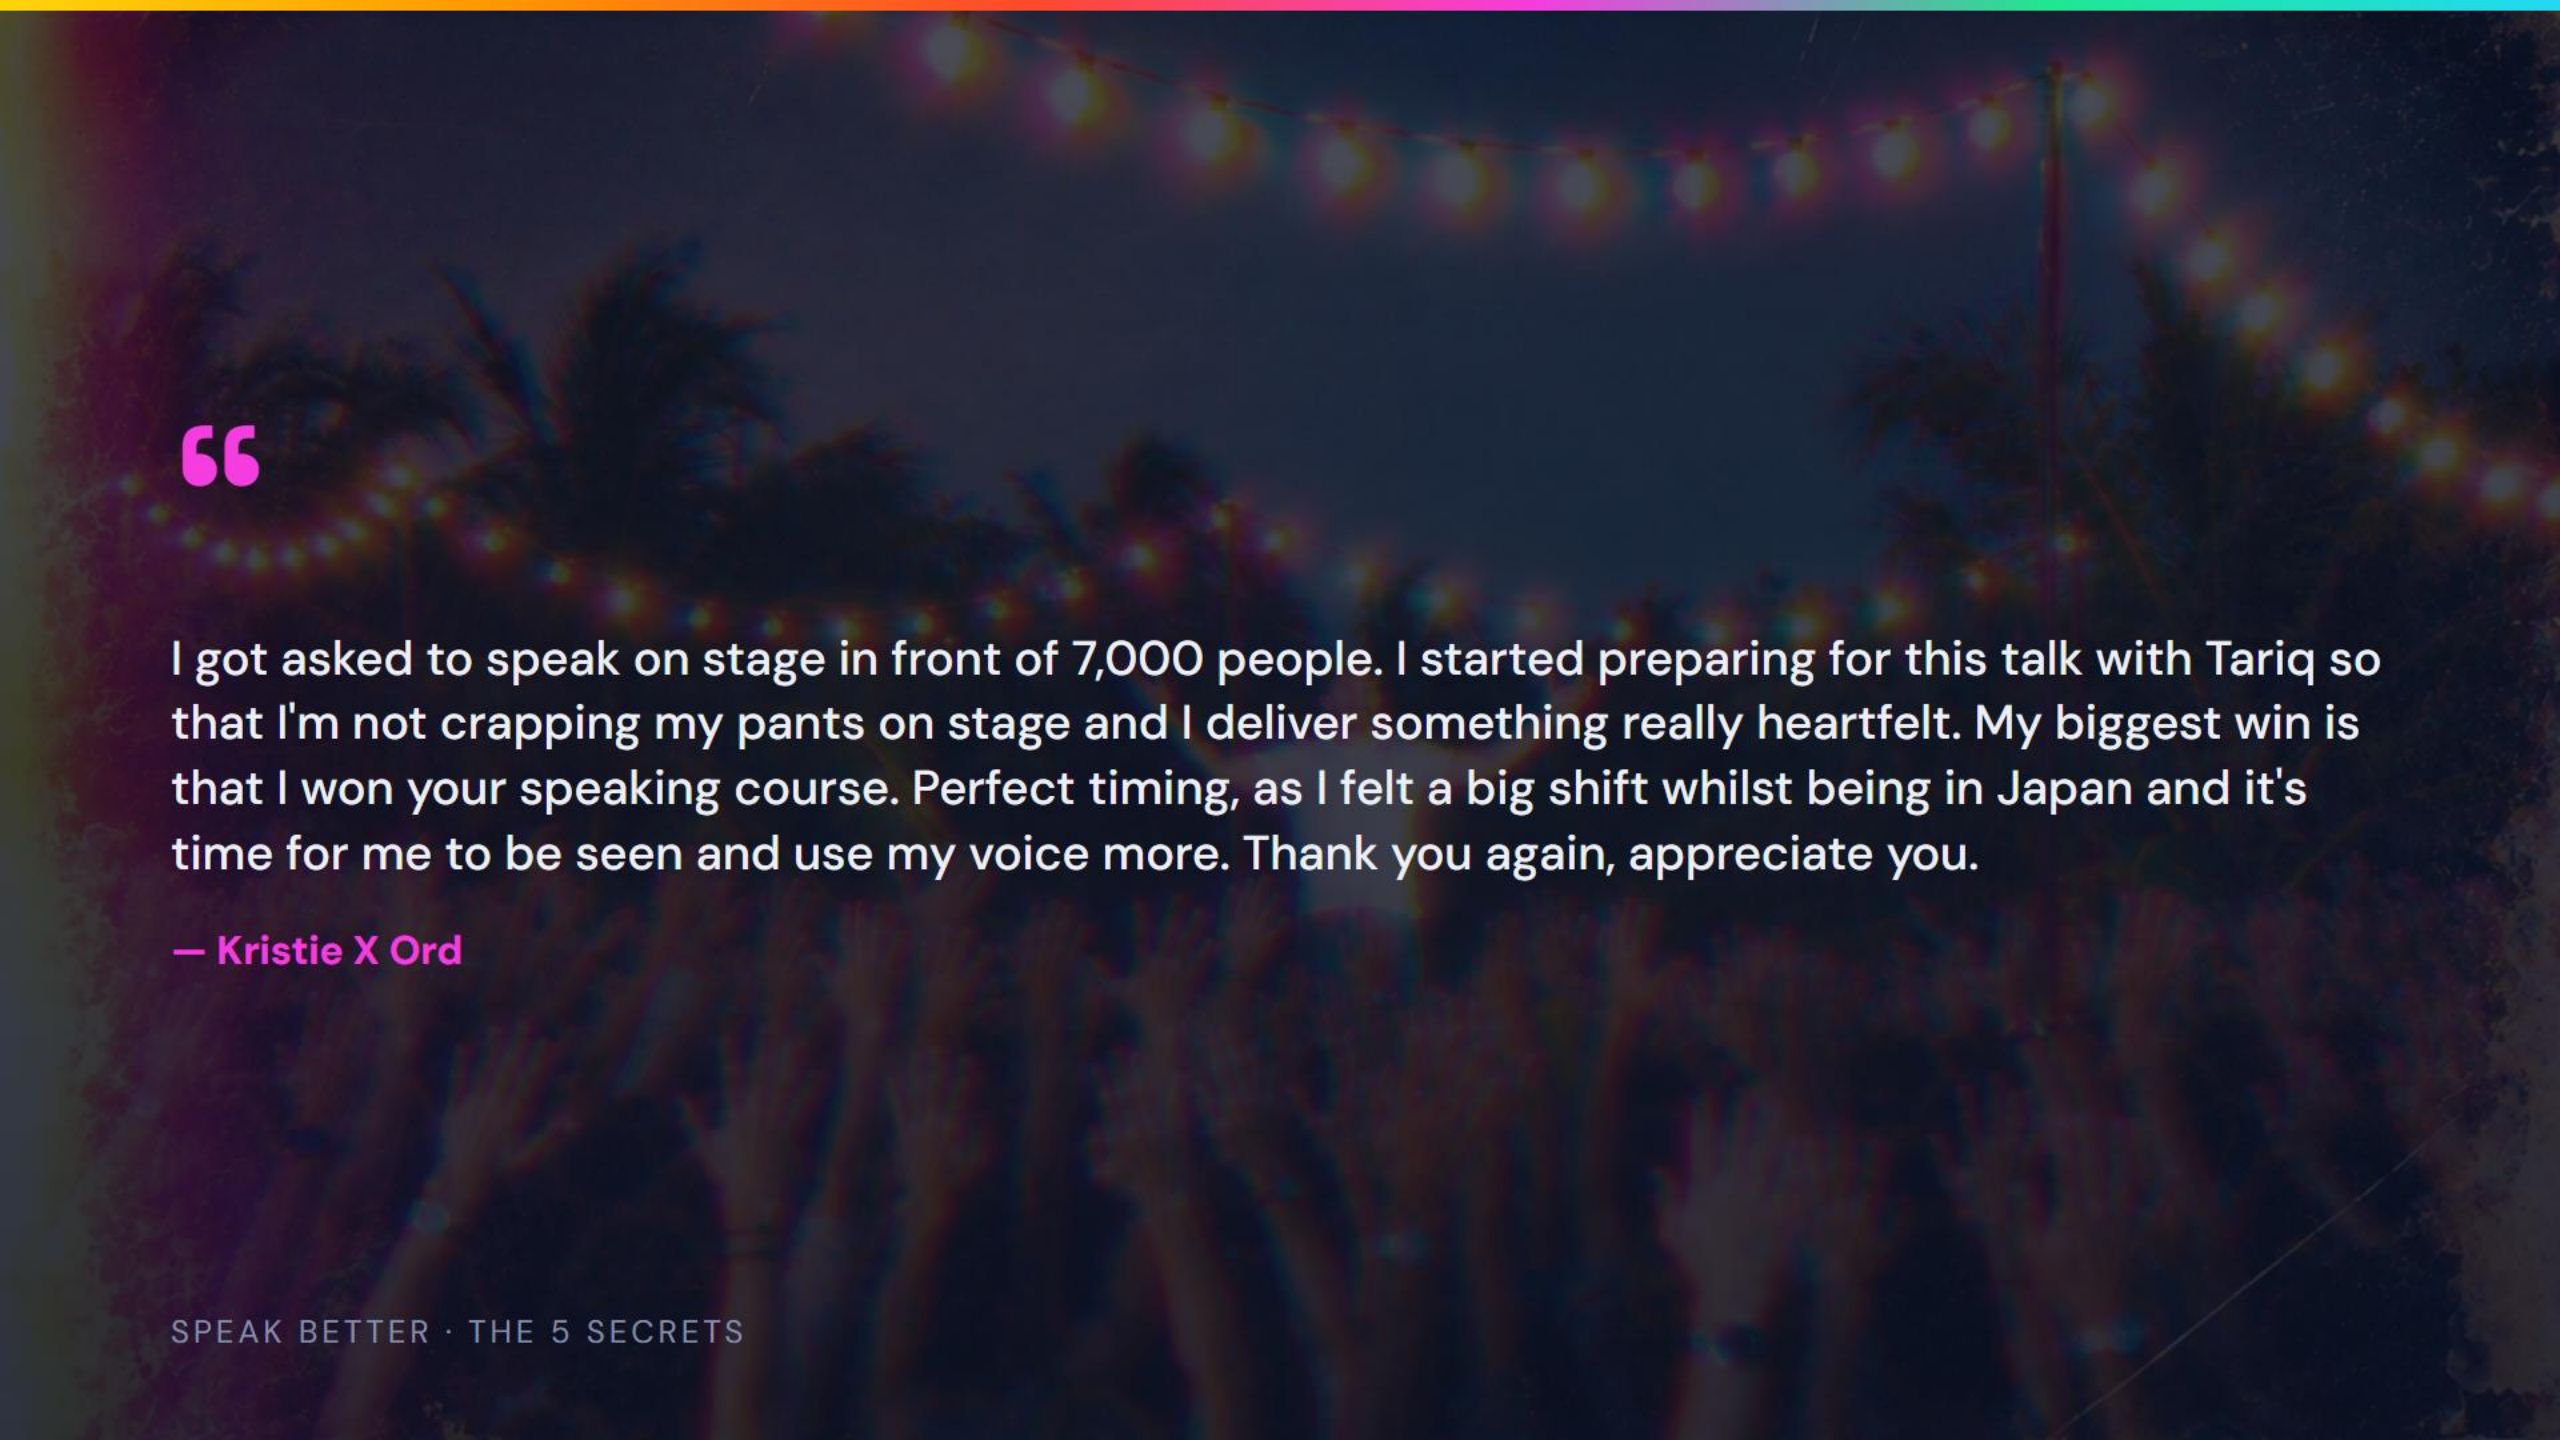

The line that ends a story and lands like a punchline — because the story was the setup for it.

Tell the story so it builds the feeling, then deliver its moral in a phrase shaped like a quote. Poetic, short, and said last.

FROM THE LESSON · HOW TO BUILD MIC DROP MOMENTS

"The best punchlines are the ones with a long setup."

"Your dreams need to be deeper than other people's pockets. After that story – boom."

I got asked to speak on stage in front of 7,000 people. I started preparing for this talk with Tariq so that I'm not crapping my pants on stage and I deliver something really heartfelt. My biggest win is that I won your speaking course. Perfect timing, as I felt a big shift whilst being in Japan and it's time for me to be seen and use my voice more. Thank you again, appreciate you.

THE SPEAKING SPECTRUM

Every speaking skill sorts into one of eight colors

Most speakers lean on one or two. The unforgettable ones use the whole spectrum.

Tell

STORYTELLING

Relive experiences instead of reporting them.

Paint

FIGURATIVE & SENSORY

Language that paints instead of describes.

Act

ACTING

Character, emotion, imagination and scene work.

Voice

VOCAL DELIVERY

Pace, pitch, pauses – no fillers.

Frame

STRUCTURE

Openings, frameworks, open loops, payoffs.

Presence

CONFIDENCE

The inner game everything stands on.

Body

BODY LANGUAGE

Gestures, posture, movement.

Pro

ADVANCED

Slides, mic drops, going live.

THE SPEAK BETTER CARD DECK

77 cards. Pull one of every color — and you have a talk.

A card for every skill in the Speak Better system, color-coded to the eight areas. A yellow Tell card for the story, an orange Paint card for the language, a red Act card for how you'll perform it, a blue Voice card for how it sounds — all eight, and you have the ingredients for a dynamic talk that lights up the stage.

Want a Tell card — a storytelling idea — and nothing else? Reach for yellow. The color is the index.

BEHIND THE SCENES

There was one problem. There was only one of me.

In every cohort I watched every video myself. The method worked — but it could only reach as many people as I had hours in the day.

MEET COACH

A lion with a mane of true colors

Through advances in technology and AI, I put my methodology, my skills and my coaching approach into Coach the Lion.

Coach watches every take — your gestures, your eyes, your voice and your story — and tells you which skills you used, what you missed, and exactly which lesson to watch next.

Tariq teaches. Coach reviews.

WHAT WE BUILT

From a Facebook group to a full speaking system

83

Skill lessons

Short videos in the eight colors — 1 to 2 minutes each.

25

Challenges

The S.T.O.R.Y. road: five phases you travel through.

Colors

Coach reads the whole spectrum on every take.

THE S.T.O.R.Y. ROAD

Your challenges are a world you travel through

HOW IT WORKS

Watch. Record. Get coached. Grow.

Watch a skill

A 1–2 minute lesson on one technique.

Record a challenge

A 1–2 minute take, on your own phone.

Coach watches

Gestures, eyes, voice and the story.

Your review card

What worked, your color spectrum, what to try next.

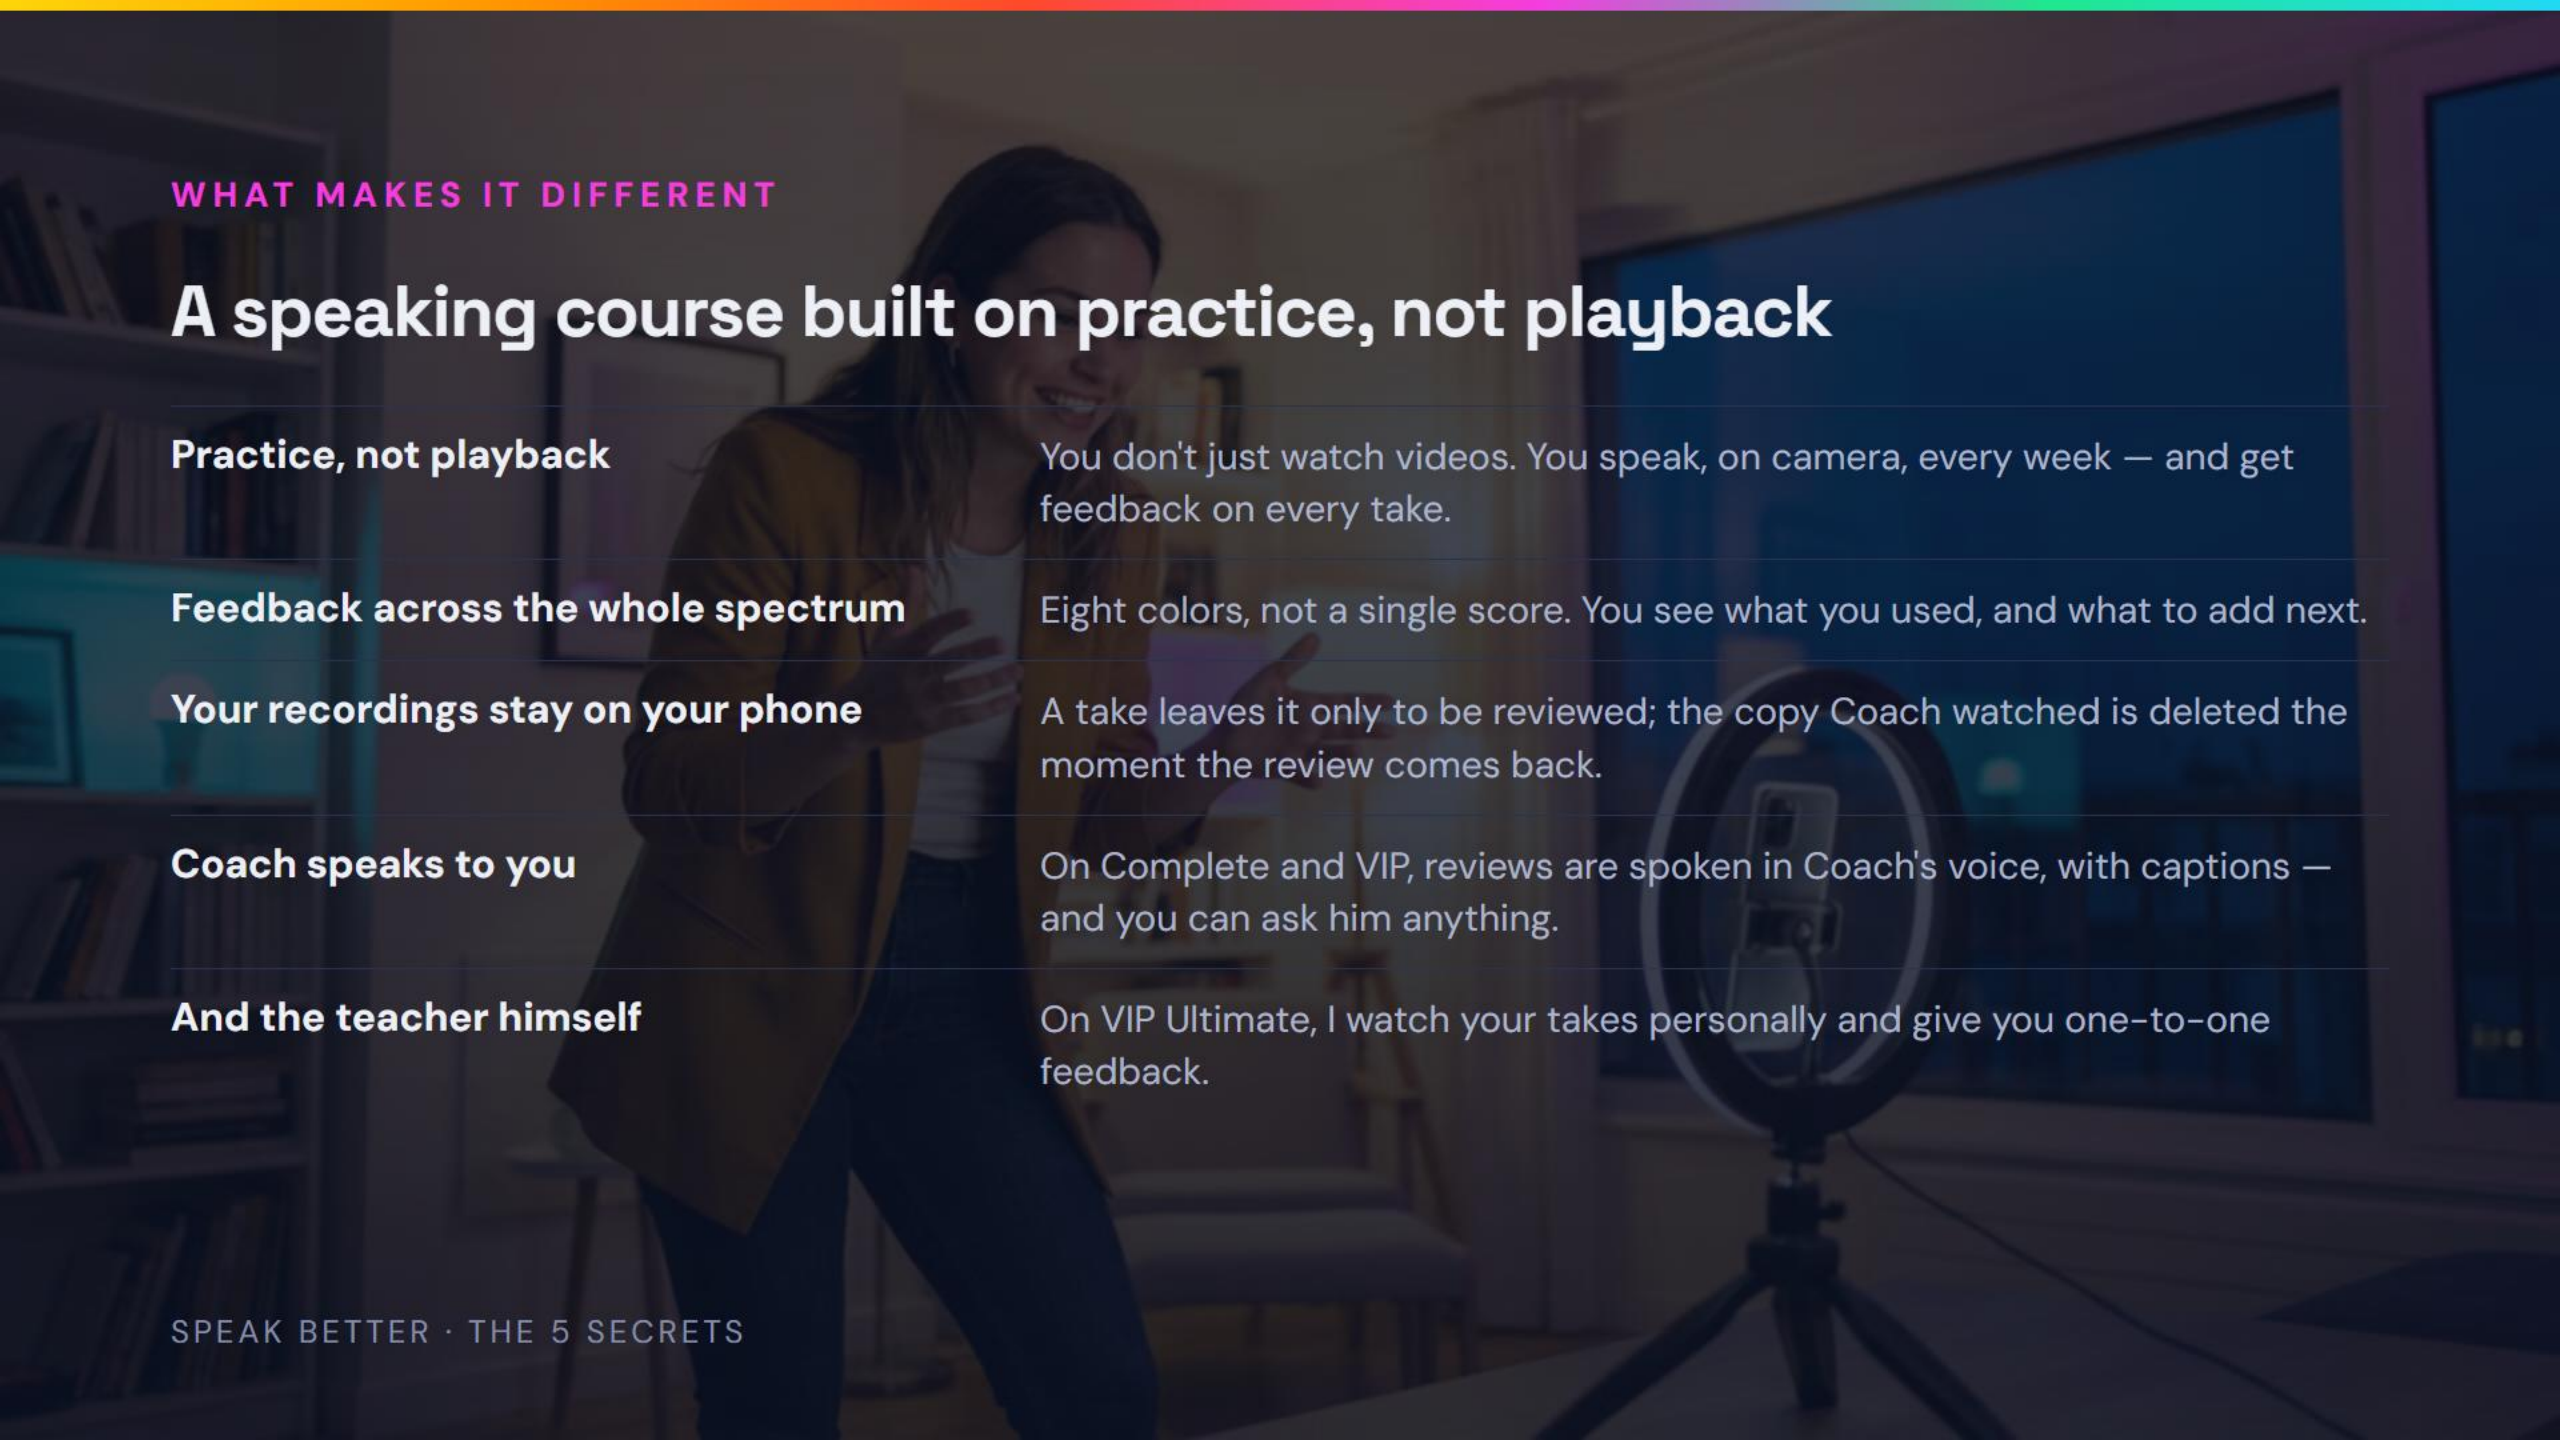

YOUR REVIEW CARD

See your speaking in full color

Every take gets a review: what worked, at the exact moment in your video — with the lesson to watch for it.

And your color spectrum: which of the eight colors you used, and which you're ready to add next.

WHAT MAKES IT DIFFERENT

A speaking course built on practice, not playback

Practice, not playback

You don't just watch videos. You speak, on camera, every week — and get feedback on every take.

Feedback across the whole spectrum

Eight colors, not a single score. You see what you used, and what to add next.

Your recordings stay on your phone

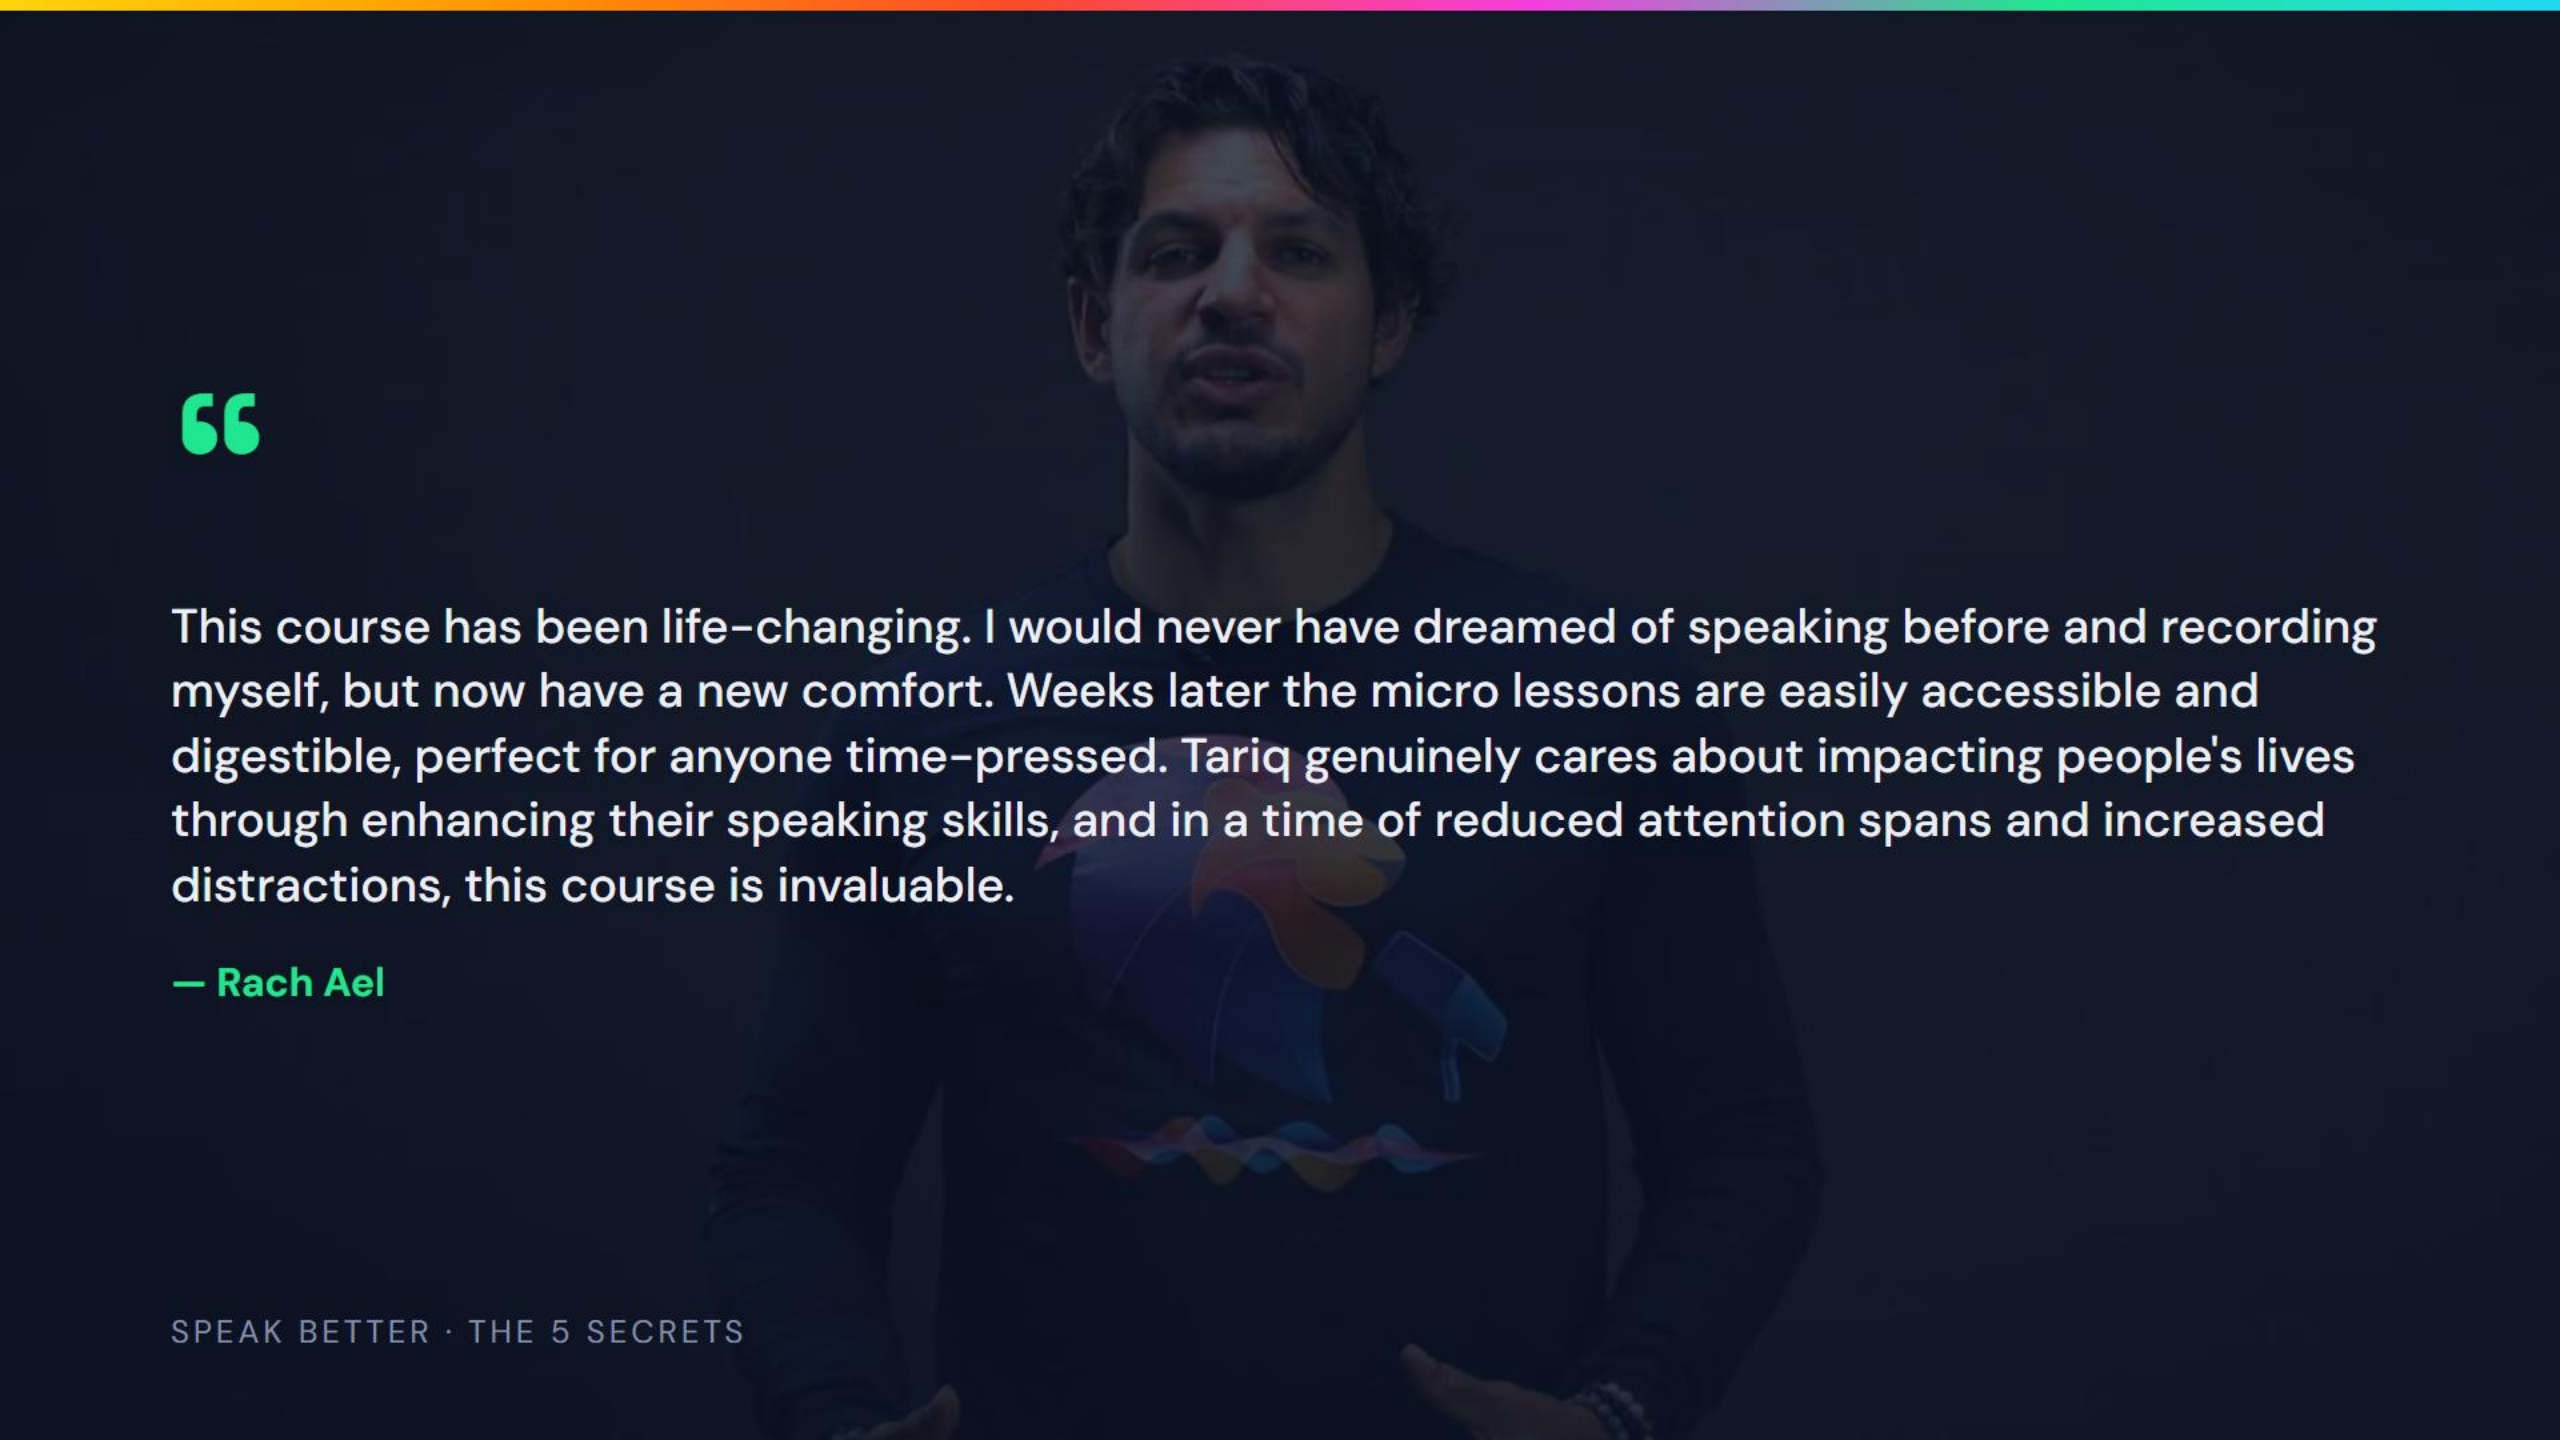

A take leaves it only to be reviewed; the copy Coach watched is deleted the moment the review comes back.

Coach speaks to you

On Complete and VIP, reviews are spoken in Coach's voice, with captions — and you can ask him anything.

And the teacher himself

On VIP Ultimate, I watch your takes personally and give you one-to-one feedback.

This course has been life-changing. I would never have dreamed of speaking before and recording myself, but now have a new comfort. Weeks later the micro lessons are easily accessible and digestible, perfect for anyone time-pressed. Tariq genuinely cares about impacting people's lives through enhancing their speaking skills, and in a time of reduced attention spans and increased distractions, this course is invaluable.
